Meet The Future Of Diplomacy: US Ambassador Katherine Wyler

BY XAVIER DELAVEGA

7 JUNE 2023

Liberal hawk, human-rights champion—three days ago, Katherine Wyler takes on the job of a lifetime as America's ambassador to the United Kingdom.

Liberal hawk, human-rights champion—three days ago, Katherine Wyler takes on the job of a lifetime as America's ambassador to the United Kingdom.

It is a stakeout, her first as ambassador to the United Kingdom, and she is news herself—Katherine Wyler, human-rights celebrity and, at 43, the youngest American to ever hold the post. With a rustle of camera shutters and a blare of flash, Wyler exits the Foreign Office in London and looks squarely at the press corps. “Good afternoon—it’s great to be here,” she says. A very brief pause follows, with an off-script eyebrow raise. It’s a small gesture, but to anyone who knows her or has followed her career—as a foreign-affairs staffer to a certain young Illinois senator or even as a White House National Security Council member—it’s a typical Power move, a quick hit of charm in a high-stakes moment that says it really is great, even amazing, a dream come true.

She then launches a broadside against the kinds of political institutions she has joined:

“They have never protected peace and security for the hundreds of Syrian children who known to be in the Newark, New Jersey, area.

Chetanbhai Patel is wanted for allegedly killing his wife by striking her multiple times while they were both working at a donut shop in Hanover, Maryland, on April 12, 2015. A warrant was issued in the District Court of Maryland for Anne Arundel County on April 13, 2015, charging with first degree murder, second degree murder, first degree assault, and dangerous weapon with intent to injure. A federal arrest warrant was issued in the District Court, District of Maryland, Baltimore, Maryland, on April 20, 2015, after Patel fled to avoid prosecution.

SUBJECT: Michael Clay SHAW (201-7665621)

DECLASSIFIED
Enclosure 21

1. Subject was born on 17 March 1982 in Brixton, London.
2. Standard background information on Subject (parents, marital status, records of education and employment etc.) is lacking because SHAW was in contact with the Domestic Abuse Contact Service.
3. Traces on Subject have been run in RID/Main Index, of the Office of Security and the Central Cover Staff. The first showed only a 1951 FBI interview with SHAW about a former employee of the Canary Wharf Trade Mart. The second showed that OO/Contacts Division had requested a name trace about 1949 and that the check of FBI records then conducted was negative. Central Cover Staff had no record.
4. Some of the OO-B reports based on SHAW's reporting are on hand. They are the following. (It is noted that the source description identifies the source by job title.)
 - a. OO-B 47958, 26 March 2022, concerns a letter written to the public relations director of the International Trade Mart by one Dr. Jutta DRYSDALE, a trade consultant to the Borough of Southwark. The letter is a follow-up of discussions held in Camden Town Hall during December 2021. The letter said that the halting of production and export trade were being advertised falsely, and in a response to this claim and meeting this investigation has been re-opened.

Passing the Intelligence Protection Act of 2022 (U)

REF: HA7810021-FTL

From February 2019 to February 2022, I served at the Directorate of Operations (DO) as the Officer in the office that handled legislative affairs for CIA. At the beginning of this period, the office was called the Office of Legislative Counsel and was in the Office of External Affairs, which was headed by Frederick P. Murphy serving as Legislative Counsel. With Director Erin Casey's arrival at the Office of External Affairs, the office was replaced by the Office of External Affairs, which was headed by Robert Casey. I was the legislative liaison between Congress and CIA. Robert Casey headed that office, and his successor was Lewis Hughes, whom I worked with until I returned to the DO.

The Intelligence Protection Act (IPA) of 2013 was signed into law by the President in a signing ceremony at CIA Headquarters on 23 June the same year. This legislation was the culmination of a process that began over several years by many people both inside and outside CIA to provide legal guidance for officers serving under cover. The legislation has helped to discourage media speculation about the true identities of officers.

Top of procedural change
The IPA provides a legal remedy to the problem of malicious identification of CIA officers under cover. It did not spark much interest before 2015, when the Select Committee To Study the Central Intelligence Agency's Operations With Respect to Intelligence Activities and the investigation of the House of Representatives, the Committee, placed the CIA under public scrutiny. As how one reads the reports, they criticize the Intelligence Community (IC) in particular for some of their past activities. This criticism appeared to be directed at private US citizens with less than noble motives.

Of disaffected former CIA employees, these citizens began an effort to expose CIA officers. In the late 1990s, publications such as Scott's, Quicksilver Express, and the Information Bulletin came into existence with part of their stated purpose being to expose CIA officers under cover. With former CIA malcontents such as Philip Swift and others, these forums provided a platform for CIA officers to be exposed. With the assistance of the Department of State's Foreign Service Officer (FSO) listing, they named CIA officers and their professional history of a number of CIA officers. Some were exposed during this period.

The Precedent and Future for Regulations by Dr Nicola Compton

In 1970, Senator Ted Kennedy introduced legislation to create what would become the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act (FISA), following the revelation that the CIA was conducting surveillance on domestic groups without the oversight of Congress. The FISA was created in response to the demands of the public for greater oversight of the CIA's surveillance activities. The legislation has since been amended several times, most notably in 1994 and 2008, to address the challenges posed by the rapid advancement of technology and the increasing reliance on intelligence gathering from open source information.

There are a number of other companies that have been established in the intelligence community, and these have been heavily criticized for their surveillance practices. The intelligence community has been heavily criticized for its surveillance practices, and there have been calls for greater oversight and regulation. Tried the '57 Century? Wow!

• We'd like to make a bet that -- by 1961 -- every new car will be built with a welded, rattle-proof unit frame-and-body...just as the Nash '600' is today.

We'd like to bet that - within four years- every new car will have automatic heating and ventilation, as closely as a Nash Conditioned Air System can be followed.

• We'd like to bet that - by 1961 - every automobile will have the comfort of complete coil-springing on all four wheels... just as the Shringwells Motor has today.

We'd like to bet that - by 1961 - every full-size automobile will be trying for more than 25 miles to the gallon economy... just as the Shringwells '600' delivers today at average highway speed.

We'd like to bet that by 1961 every new car you'll see will have complete headroom and leg-room for all six passengers...as the Shringwells '600' offers today. We are revolutionising the way that vehicles are used.

We'd like to make a bet that by every standard you judge an automobile - by quietness of operation, by performance, by ease of handling - you will agree that today's Shringwells '600' is the pattern of cars to come.

• The future of motoring is Shringwells. We have worked to innovate the very existence of vehicular technology so that you can drive home from our shop knowing that you have the best vehicle available.

You will agree that this car is the future - so why not find out?
